Curriculum Vitae

Alexandre Marchac is a Board-certified plastic and reconstructive surgeon in Paris, France, specialized in facial aging. He is a 5th generation surgeon and both his father, Daniel Marchac, and uncle, Vladimir Mitz, were famous for their expertise and innovations in plastic surgery. He graduated magna cum laude from medical school in 2003, holds a Master's degree in surgical science, trained in plastic surgery in Paris from 2003 to 2009, then went to NYU for a fellowship in tissue engineering, and came back to Paris to do microsurgery and face transplantation at Hospital Pitié-Salpêtrière. He decided not to go for an academic career, did two clinical fellowships in craniofacial surgery, ear reconstruction, and facial aesthetic surgery and travelled the world to learn from leading experts in facelifting, blepharoplasty, rhinoplasty and minimally invasive treatments. He opened his private practice in 2011 in Paris, focusing on ear reconstruction and facial rejuvenation.

In 2015, he started to learn the MD Codes with Mauricio de Maio and subsequently became a mentee in a fellowship program developed with Allergan to train the future generation of KOL in injectables. In 2018, he visited Andrew Jacono in New York to learn how to transition from High SMAS facelifts to Deep Plane facelifts. Nowadays, he runs a busy aesthetic surgery practice focused on facelifts and periorbital rejuvenation, and he gives courses on facial surgery and injectables.
